DEPARTMENT _____

On Friday evening, January 15, 1982, Randy Lyman received a call on the pager about a spill on 1038 W. Pacific. There is an above-ground oil storage facility, owned by Campbell 66 Express, Inc., at this address. Apparently one of the valves near the ground had frozen and cracked open. Oily material was dripping from the valve. The street department put sawdust on the spill. Randy checked the site again Saturday, but the valve had not been repaired. The street department put more sawdust on the spill. Bob Corson and I checked the area on Monday morning, January 18th, and the oily material was still dripping from the valve. I met Ben Dougherty, the general purchasing manager of Campbell 66 on Pacific Street. He said that he had not been informed of the leak by his office until Monday morning. He repaired the valve at this time. He was informed that he needed to report the spill to the Missouri Department of Natural Resources. He was advised to spread straw or sawdust on the spill and later to containerize and dispose of the oil material.

Dear Mr. Dougherty:

Please be advised that on January 15, 1982, personnel from the City of Springfield Public Works Department responded to an oil spill on the 1000 block of West Pacific. The spillage was due to a broken valve on an oil storage tank owned by Campbell Sixty-Six Express, Inc. The oily substance left the storage lot and entered the street and ran into the storm sewer on West Pacific. Street maintenance crews spread sawdust several times on the spilled material.
